

Norwegian Embassy, Berlin, Germany   Snohetta
Project scope: First Prize Invited Competition: full design services
Completed: 1999
Client: Staatsbyg, Norwegian State Building Authority
Size: 20,000 sq. ft.
Budget: $ 4.3 million
Christoph Kapeller as founding partner of Snohetta and project designer from 1995-1996

The Norwegian Embassy in Berlin is part of the Nordic embassy complex at the Tiergarten in the center of Berlin. The most obvious feature of the Project is the front facade that is composed of a single piece of gray granite. The monolite is 42 feet tall, 15 feet wide and weight 110 tons. The remainder of the external facades are covered louvered glass screens while a semi-enclosed courtyard brings light and air into the building.

COMMERCIAL

CK
ARCHITECTURE

christoph kapeller, aia   639 s.spring st. suite 4a, los angeles, ca 90014,   t.: (213) 488-3360   f.: (213) 488-4988